Dear [Client Name],

It was a pleasure showing you [Property Address] the other day. I wanted to follow up and see if you had any additional thoughts or questions regarding the home after having some time to reflect on it.

I know that the first walkthrough can often feel like a whirlwind. To help you get a better feel for the space and imagine yourselves living there, I would like to propose a quiet second tour.

This "no-pressure" visit will allow you to:

- Take your time in each room without feeling rushed.
- Measure for furniture or specific spaces.
- Experience the neighborhood and the property's natural light at a different time of day.
- Take a closer look at any details you might have missed during the initial showing.

I have spoken with the sellers, and they are open to accommodating a private viewing at your convenience. Would you be available for a brief revisit this [Day of the Week] at [Time], or is there another time that works better for your schedule?

I look forward to hearing from you.

Best regards,
