Dear [Patient Name],

We are writing to inform you of the results of your recent screening mammogram performed on [Date of Procedure].

Result: Normal / Negative

The radiologist has reviewed your images, and the findings are normal. There is no evidence of cancer or any abnormality requiring further action at this time.

While this is excellent news, please remember that a mammogram is a screening tool and does not guarantee that cancer will never develop. It is important to continue regular breast self-exams and notify your primary care physician immediately if you notice any new lumps, skin changes, or nipple discharge.

Unless your doctor advises otherwise, we recommend that you schedule your next routine screening in [12/24] months. A copy of this report has been sent to your referring provider, [Physician Name].

If you have any questions regarding these results, please contact our office at [Phone Number].

Sincerely,

[Doctor/Clinic Name]
