Dear [Patient Name],

We are writing to inform you of the results of your recent Prostate Specific Antigen (PSA) blood test performed on [Date].

Your PSA level was measured at [Insert PSA Level] ng/mL. This result is considered to be in the "borderline" or "gray zone" range.

A borderline result does not necessarily mean that prostate cancer is present. PSA levels can be elevated due to several non-cancerous factors, including:

- Recent physical activity or cycling.
- Benign Prostatic Hyperplasia (BPH), which is a common enlargement of the prostate.
- Prostatitis (an infection or inflammation of the prostate).
- Recent urinary tract procedures.

Because this result is not definitive, we recommend the following next step:

[Option 1: Repeat the blood test in X months.]
[Option 2: Schedule a follow-up appointment for a physical examination.]
[Option 3: Referral to a Urologist for further evaluation.]

Please contact our office at [Phone Number] to schedule your follow-up appointment or if you have any questions regarding these results.

Sincerely,
