RE: FORMAL NOTICE REGARDING DISSIPATION OF MARITAL ASSETS

Dear [Spouse's Name],

I am writing this formal letter to express my serious concerns regarding recent financial transactions and the depletion of our marital assets. It has come to my attention that significant funds or property have been used for purposes that do not benefit our household or the marriage.

Specifically, I am referencing the following activities: [List specific transactions, withdrawals, or sales of property].

Please be advised that under the law, both parties have a fiduciary duty to preserve marital property during a separation or pending divorce. The use of marital funds for personal gifts, gambling, excessive spending, or any activity intended to reduce the share of assets available for equitable distribution is considered "dissipation of assets."

This letter serves as a formal demand that you immediately cease and desist from any further unauthorized spending, transfer, or concealment of marital property. I am currently keeping a detailed record of all financial discrepancies.

Please be aware that if these activities continue, I will instruct my legal counsel to seek a court order to freeze our accounts and request that the court credit my share of the marital estate to compensate for the wasted funds.

I hope we can resolve these financial matters transparently and fairly moving forward.

Sincerely,
