Re: Referral for Estate Planning Update Following Final Decree

Dear [Client Name],

Congratulations on the finalization of your legal proceedings. Now that your decree has been entered, it is essential to review and update your estate planning documents to reflect your change in status.

Under current laws, a divorce or legal separation may automatically revoke certain provisions in an existing Will or trust regarding a former spouse. However, it does not typically address the appointment of new executors, successor trustees, or the specific distribution of assets to new beneficiaries.

I am referring you to the following attorney who specializes in estate planning and Will modifications:

I recommend scheduling a consultation as soon as possible to ensure your assets are protected and your final wishes are clearly documented. I have provided them with a confirmation that your decree is final, but you will need to provide them with copies of your current Will and the final court order.

Thank you for allowing me to assist you with your recent legal matter. Please let me know if you have any questions regarding this referral.

Sincerely,

[Your Signature]
